

BIG BATTLESHIP MICHIGAN WAS LAUNCHED AT CAMDEN

Is First Of All The Big Gun Battleships Of The United States Navy.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Camden, N. J., May 26.—The battleship Michigan, the first of the all big gun battleships of the United States Navy, was launched today at the yard of the New York shipbuilding company in the presence of a distinguished gathering of officials from Washington and the state of Michigan.
As the ship left the ways Miss Carol Barker Newberry, daughter of Assistant Secretary of the Navy Newberry, raised the northernmost bottle of champagne and dashed it against the receding wall of steel, exclaiming "Christen thee Michigan."
The river about the shipbuilding plant was filled with boats and as the new defender of the flag took the water a great salute was given her by all the craft, and by the whistles of nearby manufacturing establishments.
The band played "The Star-Spangled Banner," and the assembled crowd, including the party of nearly ten citizens of Michigan, cheered their hoarse.
After the launching, the invited guests, including the Michigan party and the naval officials from Washington, were served with a delightful collation. The affair was an informal one and informal toasts were proposed and responded to with eloquence and wit.
Description Of Battleship.
The Michigan, which is already half finished, will be, in appearance and armament, distinctly different from any of the battleships now flying the American flag. Her most noteworthy feature will be her four great turrets, out of each of which will protrude a pair of 12-inch guns of the latest and most powerful type. These turrets, which are so arranged that every one of them can be used in a broadside, either to the port or starboard, will be mounted on the axial line of the ship, one pair aft and the other pair forward of the superstructure. The turrets are placed one ahead of the Birmingham, Ala., May 26.—Gov. John A. Johnson of Minnesota was the principal speaker at the commencement exercises at the state university in Tuscaloosa. His subject was "Landmarks of American Liberty." Johnson declared the progress of the republic is opposed by two dangers. One is a tendency to a federal government centralization of power and assumption of sovereign powers not delegated to it by the constitution. The other is the power of centralized and predatory wealth, fostered by special privileges and defenses both to public welfare and the law of the land.

Judge Turner of Milwaukee So Holds in Case Brought to Test Right of Such Taxation.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milwaukee, Wis., May 26.—Real estate mortgage bonds are taxable under chapter 378, laws of 1903, and property held in trust for a client by a trust company is also subject to taxation. This is the effect of the decision of Judge Turner in the actions brought to test the right of the city to tax bonds held by the Wisconsin Trust Company in trust for Eric Heyl and Clara S. Heyl. The judge held that the tax imposed was rightfully levied and as a result the city will be benefited to the extent of about $16,739.55. It is announced that the case will be appealed to the supreme court. The effect of the decision, if upheld by the supreme court, will be far-reaching according to city officials. It

SAILORS PARADED IN SEATTLE TODAY

Land Forces Join With Bluejackets in Big Parade Today in West.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Seattle, Wash., May 26.—Bluejackets and marines from the Atlantic fleet now lying in the harbor joined with a large force of soldiers representing the military posts in this vicinity and a great number of fraternal organizations in the most notable parade this city has ever known. The event took place this morning and was witnessed by immense crowds that lined the streets and occupied doors, windows and housetops.
The men from the ships numbered several thousands. The line of march extended over a distance of nearly five miles and led through First Avenue, Jackson street, Second Avenue Union street, and other leading thoroughfares, all of which were lavishly decorated with the national colors.
The military division of the parade embraced thirteen companies of the Coast Artillery of the Puget Sound district, in command of Colonel Albert S. Cummins. The famous Sixth United States Artillery band furnished the music for this division.
The "uniformed fraternal organization in line included the Modern Woodmen, Knights of Pythias, Foresters, Patriarchs Militant and Woodmen of the world.
Celebratory bands on the reviewing stand, located at the corner of Second Avenue and Stewart street, were the State officials of Washington and invited guests from other states, Mayor Miller and other officials of Seattle and the executives of a number of other cities in the Northwest.
The picturesque bluejackets, in their big-collared blouses, their jaunty little white caps and their wide trousers, were enthusiastically greeted all along the route as they marched to the martial tunes of their shipmates' band. With their swinging "quick step" they contributed a feature to the pageant that was unique in the experience of the citizens of the Northwest.
After the parade disbanded sailors and officers were again taken in charge by the entertainment committee, and luncheon, rides, athletic sports and reception for the remainder of the day. Tomorrow morning the most of the vessels of the fleet will depart for Tacoma.

CITY OF TACOMA IS PREPARED FOR FLEET

Nearly $25,000 Has Been Raised to Provide Entertainment for Fleet.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Tacoma, Wash., May 26.—A fund of nearly $25,000 has been raised by the Tacoma Chamber of Commerce to provide entertainment for the officers and men of the battleship fleet, which will arrive here tomorrow for a stay of several days. Among the generous contributors to the fund were the Japanese residents of Tacoma. They have been given entire charge of the pyrotechnical display and for this feature of the programme does not surpass anything of its kind ever seen before in the Northwest. It will not be because of lack of effort or expenditure of money.
The entire festivities promise to be memorable. Already visitors are arriving in the city from points near and distant and the crowd to welcome the fleet tomorrow is expected to be of enormous proportions. The day will be observed virtually as a general holiday and everyone will quit work in witness the arrival of the formidable group of flag defenders. The waterfront as well as the entire business section of the city is already dressed in gala attire. Flags and bunting, streamers and naval emblems, canopy and leading streets and hide the fronts of public buildings and business houses. Several large welcome arches of handsome design span the thoroughfares.
The programme arranged for the festivities is filled with attractive features. The officers are expected to come ashore tomorrow evening and the Union, the university and Commercial clubs will keep house for them. At the Y. M. C. A. the men of the fleet will be made especially welcome.
Athletic sports, automobile rides, lawn games, luncheons and receptions will keep the visitors busy the whole of Thursday, with a military and naval ball in the evening. The entertainment for Friday will be along the same lines. Saturday will be the big day of the week.
The parade on that day will be a memorable event. It being a holiday, the state militia, the G. A. R., the Spanish war veterans, as well as the marines and sailors of the fleet will be in line. The closing event will be the grand display of fireworks Saturday night.
During the visit of four days there will be numerous boat races on the bay and baseball games, tennis matches, boxing contests and other athletic sports on land. Each night the searchlights will be flamed and their searchlights will be turned on the city.

Link and Pin PUT IN INSTRUMENTS FOR PHONE SYSTEM

Long Distance Phone System Practically Complete Over Madison Division.

Several men under the direction of Mr. Cummings of Baraboo, were here today putting in instruments for the new long distance telephone system, which the Northwestern road is installing between Elroy and Chicago.

The wires as far as Janesville, have been up for a week or so and are rapidly being extended to Chicago.

The instruments put in here today were placed in the telegraph station at the new yards and at the passenger station. They consist of a long arm, at one end of which is the mouth piece and so arranged that they can be swung over the desk of the operator when in use and can be pushed out of the way otherwise. The car piece is on a clamp to fasten over the head so that the operator has both hands free.

The Northwestern road is installing this line more or less as an experiment, the system having been tested on the C. H. & Q. with success. The phones will be used for train orders only and no conversations or messages are supposed to be sent over the line. Trains will be blocked and messages sent by telegraph as heretofore. It is claimed for the phone system that it is much quicker and simpler to use. Another advantage is in the case of dead telegraph stations. The crews of the trains can get their orders direct from the chief dispatcher in Chicago even though there is no telegraph operator at the station. In the case of wrecks or delayed trains this would be of immense advantage.

One of the Baraboo dispatchers has been working with the C. H. & Q. for some time in order to get onto the manner of using the phone system.

As soon as the telephones for the Madison division are installed it is probable that they will be put in use and the Wisconsin division instruments will be installed as soon as possible.

In Chicago more than in any other place is woman regarded in the light of a thing of beauty and a joy forever. A new idea in middle is to have them in sets, these to be decided upon some point of resemblance, as, for instance, blondes on the second floor and brunettes on the first. What Do You Want to Know Before You Buy a Car?

Do you want to know what it will do?

A Ford car holds the world's 24 hour record, 1135 miles—the world's one hour record, 55 miles—the world's record for twenty consecutive miles, 20 min. 30 sec.—a Ford in open competition ran 95 miles on 2 1/2 gallons of gasoline—car after car of Ford make has run 10,000 miles and more, on a single set of tires.

Do you want to know what other people think of it?

16,000 Ford owners are today our best advertisers—Ford enthusiasm exists in every city, town and hamlet in which there is a Ford car—and that's pretty near everywhere. The only scuffers now are our competitors and they are not as vigorous about it as they were once. Send us your name and we will give you a list of Ford owners right near you, and then you ask them.

Do you want to know about operation and cost?

Add the fuel cost of a Ford for a year, the oil cost, the first cost, all repairs, then add for depreciation and the total will be less than the cost to keep a horse that could accomplish one-fourth the work.

Those things you ought to know before paying out your good money. Ask the Ford owners—many of them have owned other makes—don't leave it all to the agent.

Remember the Ford car is the car that lasts longest and costs least while it lasts.

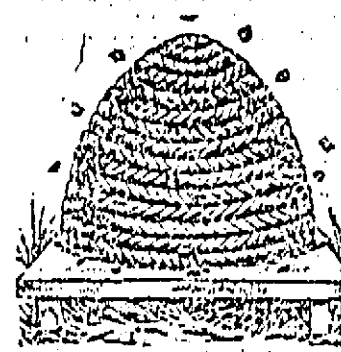

Have you seen the 1908 Ford cars?

LIVES AND CROPS LOST IN FLOODS

SEVEN DEAD AND HUNDREDS HOMELESS IN OKLAHOMA.

HOUSES WASHED AWAY

Many Deaths and Immense Damage
Done in Texas—Iowa Farmers
Suffer from Heavy Rains.

Oklahoma City, Okla., May 26.—Seven persons are dead, from 400 to 500 are homeless, thousands of acres of lowlands are inundated, hundreds of houses are washed away or damaged, railroad and wagon bridges are gone over a large area of the southern part of the state; several railroad bridges are damaged, and the tracks of nearly every railroad company operating in the state are either washed away entirely or disarranged in those sections visited by the heaviest rains and most disastrous floods.

More than 700 houses in West Guthrie are submerged. The flood has fallen, but the bottoms are still submerged and water knee deep is running through the streets. Transportation from one part of town to another is by means of boats.

Along the valleys of the North and South Canadian rivers the Cimarron, the Arkansas, the Washita and Red river thousands of acres of growing crops have been damaged and many homes washed away.

Four Dead at Dallas.

Dallas, Tex., May 26.—Four lives known to have been lost, more than a million dollars' worth of property destroyed, 4,000 people rendered homeless and telegraph and telephone wires, west and southwest, put out of commission, the result of a record-breaking rise and overflow of the Trinity river Sunday night and Monday, making the greatest volume of water ever known in this city. The flood at nightfall passed the record made by the rise in 1886, 63 feet, when business houses in what is now a poorer residential section of Dallas were swamped. The water works plant is out of commission and the light plant is swamped.

Fort Worth Hard Hit.

Fort Worth, Tex., May 26.—The flood which descended upon Fort Worth Sunday reached its crest Monday morning and Trinity river and its tributaries have receded. The police department estimates that ten persons met death in Fort Worth and vicinity and that $1,000,000 damages has been done. Five thousand people are homeless and Texas cities are subscribing to a relief fund. All railroads announced that the observances of schedules will be indefinitely delayed. One hundred thousand acres of wheat and corn are under water in North Texas.

Heavy Rains in Iowa.

Des Moines, Ia., May 26.—Swollen by heavy rains in the valley to the north, both the Des Moines and Raccoon rivers are rising rapidly at Des Moines. Many families in the low portions of the city have packed their household goods and are prepared to move to the high lands at a moment's notice.

The excessive rains have become a serious proposition to the farmers throughout the state. Corn planting was well under way but the rains have made field work impossible, and the planting has stopped.

Beardstown, Ill., Cut Off.

Beardstown, Ill., May 26.—With the Illinois river at this place registering 20.6 feet above the low-water mark, and still rising, Beardstown is cut off from the outside world by the worst flood since 1883. Railway tracks are submerged and impassable, and all bridges are out. Many families have been compelled to leave their homes and are living in tents and other rough shelters.

WOMAN LEAPS TO DEATH.

Commits Suicide by Jumping from Seven-Story Building.

New York, May 26.—A suicide of an unusually spectacular nature occurred on East Seventy-seventh street Monday night when a woman of refinement, judging by her general appearance, jumped from the roof of a seven-story building and was killed on the pavement below.

The suicide was witnessed by Michael Phillips, who lives directly opposite and whose attention was attracted by a figure on the roof across the street. The figure seemed to be kneeling, with hands pointing toward the sky. Phillips started to raise the window when he saw the figure straighten to its full height. Then he heard a scream and the figure darted down through the air to the pavement. Death was instantaneous.

Despondent Widow Tries Suicide.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 26.—In a fit of despondency following the funeral of her husband, who committed suicide last Friday, Mrs. John Gatta, 37 years of age of Homestead, a suburb, attempted to end her own life Monday. It is said she drank water in which two boxes of matches had been soaked. She may recover.

Blaze in a Piano Factory.

Cincinnati, May 26.—The five-story manufacturing plant of the Kroll Piano company, on Harliff street between Ninth and Richmond streets, was partly destroyed by fire early Tuesday morning. The loss is estimated at $35,000.

Gold Found in Turkey's Crop.

Half an ounce of pure gold was found in the body of a turkey killed on a farm on the Tarwino river, Victoria.

THE NEW YORK TEAMS

Both American and National Clubs Settling a Swift Pace.

YANKS' STAR PITCHING STAFF

Clark Griffith's Team Has One of the Best in the American League—Tanney, Dridwell and Donlin Have Strengthened the Giants.

Possibly one of the most important facts which have been developed since the beginning of the present baseball season is that New York city has two very good baseball teams. Without becoming hysterical and claiming the championship before the season is very old it is fair to say that the teams which are playing for the title of the New York populace this year are likely to afford a vast amount of amusement for everybody if they maintain the pace which they have set in the early part of the season.

Clark Griffith's American league team is putting up a first class article of ball, and now that Pitcher Jack Chesbro has given ample evidence of his return to form the chances of the Yanks in the race are improved. It also looks as if Manager Griffith has found a pitcher of rare promise in Walter Manning, the Williamsport (Pa.) recruit from the Tri-state league, who has demonstrated his ability to go the route and, what is more, to return the Yankees victorious.

Glado and Orin have not uncovered their real form yet, but it is safe to predict that these performers will send them over when Old Sol commences to let loose some of his hottest rays. Griffith also has Newton and Hogg, both of whom, while erratic, are capable of pitching high class ball, to say nothing of Joe Doyle, who should win many more games than he loses.

It really begins to look as if the Old Fox at last has a pitching staff which will carry the team through a successful season, always provided, of course, none of the box men is hurt in a mishap on the diamond. Judging from what the Yankees have accomplished in the race so far, the outlook for an American league pennant is brighter than at any time since New York was made a part of Ben Johnson's circuit.

The Giants are playing good ball on their western trip, and it looks like their way Manager Johnny McGraw will have great hopes of landing the flag. Fred Tenney at first base has put new life into the team. Heidwell, another old Boston player, is putting up a good game at short position, and Arthur Devlin is demonstrating that he is still one of the greatest third basemen in the business. Larry Doyle, under Tenney's coaching, is playing a better game at second this year than he did last. The outfield could not be improved upon. Mike Donlin is hitting the ball as hard as he ever did. Cy Seymour is about due for another great season with the stick, and "Spike" Blanton is still there with his occasional hit.

The pitching department is not as strong as it might be. Taylor, Ames and McGraw have not shown up well so far, but later on Manager Johnny McGraw expects the old timers to come back to their own. Crandall, the Giants' young pitcher, has shown major league caliber and is assured of a berth in the big league. The mighty Christy Mathewson is now pitching as good ball as he did in 1905. With "Big Six" in good form and when the hot days in June come around to take the kinks out of the other old timers' arms the Giants will be about the most formidable team in the National league.

Golfer Lyon to Stay Home.

George Lyon, amateur golf champion of Canada and winner of the Olympic honors at the St. Louis games, refuses to go to England and to represent the Dominion. The Olympic committee would allow only $400 for his expenses, and he asserted $600 was necessary. Lyon says his decision is final.

HICKMAN HAS NOVEL JOB.

"Cheerful Charley" of Cleveland Naps Hired to Jolly His Team Mates.

Many times the question has been asked, "Why did the Cleveland American league club sign Charley Hickman last fall, and why is he being carried on the pay roll?" It's not because he is a good batter. Hickman's batting eye has been a trifle dim for the past two or three seasons. Nor is it because he is a great fielder. Hickman has an absolutely unique job in baseball, which might be called "good fellow."

The Cleveland club has been troubled for several seasons past by internal strife and dissensions. Always made up of star players, it has failed consistently in the winning of pennants. The owners, Somers and Kilfoyl, finally decided that persistent ill feeling between members of the team had a good deal to do with its lack of success.

They tried getting rid of the supposed disturbers. This did no good. Either the right men were not picked out or new disturbers arose as fast as vacancies were created. Then came a bright thought—to hire a man who would by his own good humor, cheerfulness and tact "keep peace in the family."

Therefore "Cheerful Hick" was signed. He is probably the most popular ball player among his fellows in the business. He is always sympathetic, kind hearted, good natured, cheerful. He is a born optimist and a natural peace producer. He "jollies up" sulky and discontented members of the team. He talks good sense and is always listened to.

SCHAEFER A COMEDIAN

Detroit Second Sacker Probably the Funniest Ball Player.

HAS PLAYED MANY TRICKS.

His Most Recent One Was That of Leaping into Mayor Johnson's Auto.
Started the Spectators by Pretending to Take Their Pictures.

Possibly Arlie Latham was the funniest man that ever participated in the great national pastime. The old timers will tell you that Arlie was the prize out-p, but those who patronize baseball of the present day are quite prone to believe that "Germany" Schaefer, second baseman for the Detroit Americans, is about the most humorous fellow that ever broke in. It's a poor day when "Germany" doesn't pull off some funny stunt. In fact, his antics have become so much a part of the Detroit mode of play that if he is unusually quiet in any certain game the families go home rather disappointed.

SECOND BASEMAN SCHAEFER OF THE DETROIT AMERICAN LEAGUE TEAM.

One of the recent games between the Tigers and the Cleveland brought to light some of the comedian's best humor. The diamond was wet, and the game was deferred some three-quarters of an hour while the excellent ground keeper mopped and ironed the surface of the lot. The players, not being able to practice in the convenient manner, took recess as an occasion for fun.

Schaefer had been working near the third base coaching line, and the bugs that inhabit that portion of the stands had been having some fun with him. Schaefer saw a chance to get even, so he borrowed a camera, squinted through the view finder, requested the populace to look pleased and prepared to make a photograph.

As a matter of fact, Schaefer knew about as much concerning the taking of a picture as a Zulu does about Latin, but he went through with the joke. Some of the time the families were standing up and grinning in great shape, no doubt expecting the papers of the coming morning to contain a huge view by "Germany Schaefer, photographer." Needless to say, the photo was never printed.

One of his favorite stunts is to coach at first base when that station is occupied and a run is necessary for Tiger success. On such occasions the actions of Schaefer are worth the price of admission. He runs about in a circle, and he mad dog over had anything on him. His run more closely resembles a hot foot than anything else.

After the last game Detroit had in Cleveland Schaefer sprinted after Mayor Tom L. Johnson's auto, clambered aboard and rode to his hotel in style. It is not known how he halted his honor's gasoline gic, but it would not be at all surprising if he yelled, "Hey, Tom, old scout, wait a minute and give a fellow a lift!"

With all his kidding and funmaking, Schaefer is never offensive; he never gets off anything that hurts, and he is a gentleman at all times. Schaefer plays ball just as he "kicks"—for all he is worth. A few men like him on every ball club would do a lot toward keeping down strife and jealousy and in promoting a good feeling. The fans like him; he is a good scout. Arlie Latham may have been the king bee jester, but he had to go some to have anything on Schaefer.

CLEAN UP; GET BUSY.

Excellent Watchwords For a
Town to Adopt.

HOW TO START THE WORK.

Begin Without Delay—Make the Town
Healthier, Happier and More Beautiful by Cleaning Up Everything and Every Place.

Bucyrus, O., has started a cleaning up campaign, and the following excellent methods that have been suggested for beautifying the town may well be adopted by other places:

"Clean up" is the watchword. Health demands it, appearance requires it and good sense points the way, says the Bucyrus Evening Telegraph.

In some localities a "clean up" day is popular. In some localities one day proven insufficient.

Clean up everybody, everything and every place.

There is a lot of useless stuff that accumulates throughout the year. Spring is the time to get it all out of the way and get that sweet, clean smell and the appearance which means much to health and happiness.

The doctors suggest a "spring tonic" to get the blood in proper circulation and the brain to doing its proper work. Get the sluggish feeling out of your veins and muscles and get free, healthy action of every organ.

That is a good thing for the human system, but it is a good thing for the community as a municipality.

The street force is already at this good work.

Many householders have taken it up and will pursue it to a finish.

Others should start without delay. Clean the back yards and alleys. Get the accumulated worthless material on a big pile where the garbage man can get it.

Help the street force as much as possible in this good work.

If you can take advantage of the first fine day to do it the benefit will be all the greater.

If one day proves insufficient, take two days or three days.

A good example is a help to the entire neighborhood.

Start right and keep right, and your neighborhood will take on the same enthusiasm.

Bucyrus, O., is a city of wide reputation for beauty and the advanced ideas of her citizens.

Bucyrus has fine lawns and fine shade trees and beautiful homes. We want to strengthen that reputation.

We are told there are some men idle in Bucyrus. They will be glad to work, because this is the pleasant kind of work. They say some days the business man has leisure which he could devote to cleaning up his premises.

That sort of work will make his home look better, make himself feel better and do the town good.

The business men are all working for the good of the town.

They all want the place to have the best possible reputation.

The great majority of our citizens are anxious for this same thing.

For the business man it helps business; for the average householder it helps enjoyment.

For all it stimulates personal and civic pride.

Don't wait for your neighbor to start; perhaps he can't give it the attention the same day you take up the work yourself.

Every one who starts gets so much more of the benefit.

Many have started already. Others will start soon.

All should get busy and make the town healthier, happier and enough sight more beautiful.

This is the season when a little work counts a great deal.

Clean up; get busy.

Small Towns Best.

No stronger portrayal of the effect of the cities on our citizenship was ever made than in those striking words of Wendell Phillips:

"My ideal of civilization is a very high one, but the approach of it is a New England town of some 2,000 inhabitants, with no rich man and no poor man in it, all mingling in the same society, every child at the same school, no poorhouse, no beggar, opportunities equal, nobody too proud to stand aloof, nobody too humble to be shut out. That's New England as it was fifty years ago. The civilization that lingers beautifully on the hillside of New England, nestles sweetly in the valleys of Vermont, the moment it approaches a crowd like Boston or a million of men gathered in one place like New York riots. It cannot stand the greater centers of modern civilization."

Deforestation Opposed.

(An appeal to save the trees which benefit mankind and towns.)

Do trees dey dress up in dey best,
A-drippin' wid de dew,
Dey save a place fer de fayrbird nest,
An' a home fer de rain crow too.

Do birds dey come kase dey ain't 'fraid
In de lan' Mias Springtime rule,
Do rivers say he want some shade
Fer de water lilies cool.

Dey dey reach out an' dey call de breeze
Fuh de ease an' cum de weel,
An' de catfish thankful 'w'en de trees
Say, "Lay in my a'do an' res'."

Oh, de trees is good ter de fust an' low,
An' ter peace an' res' dey call.
It's dees too bad fer ter cut um down
W'en dey shelter an' all.

FIRE PREVENTION

It is estimated that the losses by fire for the first four months of 1908 averaged $1,000,000 a day. Those startling figures led to a discussion on fire prevention, by the National Manufacturers' association at their convention in New York last week, and Mr. Powell Evans, of the Merchants & Evans company, Philadelphia, delivered an interesting address on the subject.

Mr. Evans has made a study of the problem and is thoroughly convinced that more rigid inspection is necessary, both in construction and occupation. He maintains that the only way to secure lower insurance rates is to reduce the risk, and believes that this can be done through hearty cooperation with the National Fire Protection association, the engineering organization of the insurance world. "An association to promote the science and improve the methods of fire protection, to obtain information on the subject, and to secure the cooperation of its members in establishing proper safeguards against loss of life and property by fire."

Its membership consists of "active, associate, subscribing and honorary members, but no one is pledged to any course of action through this membership."

Active members (each with a vote) are insurance boards and associations, having primary jurisdiction; and national institutes, societies and associations interested in the protection of life and property against loss by fire. The annual dues of active members are $15.00.

This is a move in the right direction, and if its advantages are recognized, will soon become popular. In speaking of different classes of fire insurance, Mr. Evans says:

"Insurance abroad is practically all written by stock companies, conducting their business with their own capital, at their own risk and profit, at fixed rates. The policies there are usually for ten years, and by virtue of this long term and their incorporation immortgages and deeds of trust, they are very strongly entrenched, and no other system can get a start. In the United States, on the other hand, competitive insurance is obtainable on the best rates (mills, factories, warehouses, etc.) from the stock insurance companies on the one side and from the factory mutual fire insurance companies on the other. The latter considered first—as the simpler organization—consist of about 25 companies cooperating through one central inspection bureau, who confine their risks to such buildings only as are properly built, protected and occupied—so as to be only slightly inflammable."

"The insured pays his assessed rate into a pool and recovers annually as a dividend his pro rata surplus over the payment of losses, expenses and a small investment fund—hence the term 'mutual.' This insurance has become very large; and is found cheap, careful and safe. To meet this particular class of competition prominent stock companies have combined into factory insurance associations which insure a large amount of like property at a comparatively low rate."

"Stock insurance proper cares for all other risks—such as the bulk of city property; mills and factories of construction protection and operation below the standard above mentioned; and miscellaneous country property."

The factory mutual fire insurance companies, referred to, are not generally understood by people in the west, but they are very popular among the large mills of the east.

The strong organization supervises the construction of all factory property insured and its system of inspection is so thorough and rigid that a loss by fire is next to impossible. As a result dividends returned at the end of the year are frequently within 75 per cent of the premiums collected.

One of the large paper mill men of New York said recently that the item of insurance was so small that it hardly entered into the expense account. This organization of mutual companies has demonstrated what may be done by careful and conservative management, and while it may not be possible to duplicate the work in the larger field of general insurance conditions could certainly be greatly improved.

The only way to reduce the premium on fire insurance is to cut down the losses, and this can only be done by individual, as well as organized, effort.

Heart to Heart Talks.

LIFE IS A SCHOOL.

Under what similitude, will you liken human life?

A pleasure garden? Or a prison house? Some say this life is a penitentiary where we are punished. "Life is thickly strewn with thorns," said one pessimist; "and I know no way save to pass quickly through them." These persons are stoics.

Others view life as a garden of gaiety. They are epicureans. "Eat, drink and be merry" is the motto of these. A short life and a merry one, say these sylvanites.

The stoic is wrong. Life is not thickly strewn with thorns. It is strewn with roses. The thorns are incidental. The epicurean is also wrong. He that seeks pleasure for pleasure's sake will find only satiety.

What, then, is it? HUMAN LIFE IS A SCHOOL.

It begins in the mother's arms and ends only on the great graduation day. It has its recesses, intermissions and vacations, but the school goes on. Its teachers are named EXPERIENCE.

Sometimes the lessons are hard and the tears fall on the page of the text book. Sometimes they are pleasant as well as profitable.

But these lessons MUST BE LEARNED. Each must learn them for himself. A man can bequeath money, or advice to his boy, but he cannot bequeath his experience. The boy must go to school as did the father before him and as all the fathers before him did.

The student in life's school never gets too old to learn. When he quits learning he begins to die. How purple to say one's education is "finished" at college.

The school of life is his shikara. If one becomes a PRUDENT he must expect a sharp reprimand. If he deliberately disobeys the rules of the school he may expect punishment, also the school would be anarchy. Contrarywise, the scholar who applies himself will be rewarded.

Then hurrah for OUR SCHOOL!

When recess comes, let us laugh and play, and, as Roosevelt says, "play hard." When it is time for study let us get down to our lessons. And on the great commencement day, when the GREAT DEACON shall hand to all of us our diplomas, may there be written on them, "Well done."

MANY BILLS ARE PASSED

HOUSE GETS QUICK ACTION ON VARIOUS MEASURES.

Minority Opposes Its Obstructive Tactics for the Present—Senators Do Practically Nothing.

Washington, May 26.—Working under heavy pressure, with a single eye to adjournment at the earliest possible moment, the house Monday disposed of a great amount of business. Early in the session it became manifest that a better spirit of feeling obtained between the majority and minority, in consequence of which several bills were permitted to be passed by unanimous consent.

The sum total of the day's business was as follows: The conference reports on the sundry civil and the pension appropriation bills were agreed to, thus sending those measures to the president for signature, and leaving only the general deficiency and military academy appropriation bills to be considered in order to complete the disposition of the 14 supply measures of the government. The conference report on the District of Columbia child labor bill also was agreed to, and the following bills were passed: Amending the navigation laws; removing the discriminations against native officers of the Porto Rico provisional regiment of Infantry; granting title to a cemetery in Danbury, Ia., to the archbishop of that city authorizing the sale of unallotted lands of the Spokane Indian reservation; encouraging the development of coal deposits in Alaska; prescribing penalties against the sale of clothing and government property by soldiers; an omnibus judicial bill providing among other things for additional federal judges for Alaska, Hawaii and New Mexico; the bill revising and making more liberal the Dick million law, and several purely local bills of the District of Columbia.

An effort to annihilate time by dilatory tactics without making progress on any legislation except that involved in conference reports was the chief occupation of the senate under the leadership of Senator Aldrich. The attempt was so successful that the net result in the way of accomplishment of the day's session was the adoption of the conference report on the sundry civil appropriation bill.

LURED TO GUNNESS FARM.

Missing Wisconsin Man Induced to Go There by Accomplice.

Laporte, Ind., May 26.—That Mrs. Helio Gunness had accomplished was made certain Monday night when Martin Gurholt of Iowa, Wis., arrived to investigate the disappearance of his brother, Henry Gurholt, who left Iowa in April, 1905, to go to work on Mrs. Gunness' farm.

Martin says that early in April, 1905, a stranger came to Iowa. He formed the acquaintance of various persons, including Henry Gurholt, who was then working in a store, but who, on account of failing health, was considering going on a farm. The stranger talked of the beauties of Laporte, said he had a sister, Mrs. Helio Gunness, who was in need of such a man on the farm. The result was that Henry left for Laporte. He arrived here on April 12, 1905. He wrote home regularly to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gurholt, Scandinavian, Wis., and Explanation of Freak Names. For queer names of towns Oregon excels any other state in the union. Natural characteristics and freaks of fortune made many names, and the pioneers who settled in that far western state often selected a name for their new location from the first chance occurrences connected with it.

Equal Rights in Nature. A woman writer wants to know why it is that a man is beautiful only in his youth, and some one remarks that nature intended him to have equal rights with women to grow ugly as he grows older. It is not often, however, that men realize the fact.

LITTLE JOURNEYS TO THE TOMBS OF AMERICAN PRESIDENTS.

BUCHANAN—LANCASTER, PA.

The body of James Buchanan, fifteenth president of the United States, lies in the only burial place in Lancaster, Pa., on a small lot 30x12 feet, and is in the southern part of the city of Lancaster, Pa., in the cemetery of 27 acres, tastefully arranged and ornamented.

Crowning the highest chapel, near which is the grave of the fifteenth president.

The plot of ground commands a fine outlook over the broad acres of Lancaster county, far famed farming land. Surrounding the lot, in the center of which is the only one grave—that of the fifteenth president—is a plain, unadorned iron fence, about two feet high. At each corner is a large granite post. The fence was painted a greenish blue, and is again in need of the painter's services.

In a vault of strong masonry rest the remains of the late president. Above the grave there is no large or expensive monument, which is in accordance with a wish he expressed the day prior to his death. He requested that a simple but substantial oblong tomb be erected, and this was completed. The base is of New Hampshire granite, seven feet long by three and one-half feet wide. On this is a single block of Italian marble, six feet, four inches long, two feet, ten inches wide and three feet, six inches high, wrought with a heavy moulded cap and base. Ornamenting the cap is a branch of oak, with leaves and acorns. The appearance of the tomb is impressive.

As was especially requested by the deceased president, the following simple inscription in Roman letters is cut on the side of the block facing the west: "Here rest the remains of James Buchanan, fifteenth president of the United States, born in Franklin county, Pa., April 23, 1791; died at Wheatland, June 1, 1868." On the opposite side is the single word, "The chancel."

On three sides of the lot, which is kept in good condition, is a path, that on one side being for carriages. Dotted over the close-cut grass are three small rose bushes.

At this writing it is very probable that some improvements will be made to the lot where President Buchanan lies. The improvements will be under the direction of W. G. Johnson, Esq., of Washington, D. C., an executor of the will of the late Harriet Lane Johnson, niece of President James Buchanan. Under her will the executors have secured the lot adjoining that in which the president is buried, from the heirs of his brother, Rev. Buchanan, and the two will be thrown together and improved. That of Rev. Buchanan never had any interments made in it. Before his death, President Buchanan directed that his remains be placed in the lot he had purchased for that purpose in Woodward Hill cemetery, without any pomp or parade, and that his friend and neighbor, Rev. John W. Nevins, should perform the religious services. The latter request was complied with, but the former was not. The funeral cortege was two miles long, and the ceremonies, which were imposing, were witnessed by upward of 5,000 persons. The body was interred according to the ritual of the reformed church.

MILTON LOSES WITH VERY CLOSE MARGIN

Platteville Normal Defeat the Players from Milton College.

(Special to this Gazette.) Milton, May 25.—Milton college suffered a four-to-two defeat at the hands of Platteville Normal on Friday. The game was interesting and in favor of the college boys until the last of the eighth inning, when the Normal team tied the score on errors in the ninth and a man going first base by being hit by a pitched ball, and a slashing drive over center field brought in the winning scores for the visitors. Hyman and Ellsworth were the battery for Platteville and Hurley and Greene for Milton. At no time was Hurley in danger of being hit to any extent and with reasonable support he could have called the game his own. He struck out nine men and allowed but three hits, two of which might easily have been eliminated by reasonably fast fielding. The Platteville players were good basemen and tried to pull off a "grand slam" in the fourth inning when two runners came home almost together with the intention of having the first man block the catcher while the second scored. The catcher, however, was not caught napping and put out both runners. Three basemen struck out and six hits were made off Hyman.

The Car You Ought to Buy

We wish you could visit the Rambler shops and see how severe and thorough are the tests given every part of the car.

Come in and let us show you what the Rambler will do—how it is built to endure—why it does everything that the highest priced cars can do, and still sells for $1,400 and $2,250, according to the model.

We want to show you what the factory tests and the factory guarantee mean to you. You don't have to buy a car in order to find out all about it. We're willing and glad to tell you. Will you let us?

STOP DRINKING!

Orrine Destroys Desire for Drink
"How to Squire Off"

It was formerly customary for the habitual drinker to take the pledge regularly, sometimes once a year, and sometimes in every fit of remorse that followed his debauch, and then—break it.

But now it is gradually dawning on the world that pledges do not stop drunkenness. When a man takes a pledge voluntarily, he expects to keep it. Every man expects to keep his word, and every broken pledge costs the drunkard many a headache, but he cannot help it. He fights as long as he can, then succumbs to the craving. The nervous system of the habitual drinker is diseased and the mind has treatment that will cure his condition.

Orrine is sold under a positive guarantee to cure the drink habit or the money will be refunded. No other treatment for the liquor habit is sold with such a liberal guarantee. Orrine is prepared in two forms: No. 1, a powder, perfectly tasteless and colorless, which can be given secretly in any food or drink. Orrine No. 2, is in pill form, for those who wish to be cured of the habit, and it should be taken by every one who swears off.

No matter which form of Orrine is used the guarantee is the same. The price of Orrine is $1.00 per box, mailed in plain sealed wrapper upon receipt of order. Write for free booklet on "How to Cure Drunkenness" (mailed in plain, sealed envelope) by The Orrine Co., Washington, D. C. Orrine is sold by People's Drug Company and King's Pharmacy.

ENDED HIS LIFE
BY ASPHYXIA

August Richter, a Carpenter Residing on Park Avenue, Found Dead in Kitchen Just Before 6 P. M. Yesterday.

August F. Richter, a carpenter residing at 151 Park avenue, terminated his life in a strange fashion sometime between the hours of five and six yesterday afternoon. His wife, starting for the market to buy some groceries, left him seated on a rear porch to all appearances in a cheerful and contented frame of mind. Whether he for some time will, perhaps, never be known, but he had evidently been left alone but a few minutes when he entered the little sixty-foot kitchen and after carefully closing all the windows and the doors, turned on the four top burners of a gas stove and the illuminating jet above, and deliberately sealed himself in a chair to await the end. Mrs. Richter, returning to the house just before six o'clock, found the outer portal to the kitchen locked and peering in through a window saw her husband with his head resting on a table and his face beat on the stove, as if wrapped in a sound slumber.

There was no movement or response to her calls and raps on the window and door and filled with grave apprehensions she hastened to the nearby house of her son, Charles. The latter put his hand on some glass in his nervous haste to break in the door, and the overpowering odor of gas which poured out of the aperture confirmed the worst fears of son and mother. Hastily closing all the gas vents and opening the windows, the son placed the seemingly lifeless body of his father on the floor and one of the neighbors who had been attracted to the scene ran to telephone for a physician. Dr. E. F. Woods, upon making an examination, found that the older Richter had been dead for perhaps half an hour.

Mr. Richter was born in Germany fifty-five years ago. Besides the son, Charles, four other children survive. They are Fred and William Richter of Milwaukee, Walter Richter of this city, and Mrs. Emma Block of Eau Claire. At the State School for the Blind he was night watchman for a number of years. He belonged to the Odd Fellow and Woodmen orders and enjoyed the high esteem and regard of all who knew him. His family life was happy and the dead cannot be ascribed to any rational motive. But for some time past his health had not been good and it is believed that he brooded over his infirmities until his mind became unbalanced.

WITH DEPARTMENT

Congressman Cooper Will Investigate the Rural Rooter Problem For Rock County.

That those who are most interested in the betterment of rural conditions in Rock county may know the present conditions and outlook for the recent letters to the Gazette from Congressman Cooper dated May 18th and 21st, in answer to inquiries as to how soon the special inspector from the Post Office Department might be expected here, state in substance that he has received the Department's assurance that the chief inspector has been requested to take up the Rock county matter and give it as quick attention as possible. The Rural Rooter Delivery Bureau Chief at Washington told Mr. Cooper that there was, no doubt but that the inspector would go to Rock county very soon and add that there had been no great demand for the services of inspectors that the Department is greatly pressed and the demand is at the maximum all of the time.

Mr. Cooper says that he feels sure that an investigation of the conditions in Rock county will be made very soon by the Department and is paying personal attention to the matter of having the Post Office Department kept well in touch with conditions. Mr. Cooper has requested the Gazette to keep him posted as to whether the inspector arrives in the near future, which will be looked to. There are several petitions and map sections in the hands of people who desire rural route changes. Those should be sent to the Gazette at once as it is desirable to have all the information possible in hand when the Post Office inspector comes.

Nearly every reader has heard of Doan's Kidney Pills. Their good work in Janesville still continues, and our citizens are constantly adding endorsement by public testimony. No better proof of merit can be had than the experience of friends and neighbors. Read this case:

Mrs. Anna Kohlen, of 230 Cherry St., Janesville, Wis., says: "Since using Doan's Kidney Pills some years ago for kidney troubles and backache, I have had no hesitation in recommending them to every sufferer I have met. I had used remedy after remedy and tried plasters and did everything I knew of for these complaints, but the trouble grew continually worse, and was fast undermining my general health. About 7 years ago I was in a very bad condition, and it was at that time that I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills and procured a box at the People's Drug Co. and began using them. Good results followed quickly and a continued treatment brought me a complete cure. I have never had any kidney trouble since I used Doan's Kidney Pills." For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. In the Jefferson County Union, of the late Frank J. Brewer, of Ft. Atkinson. Dr. Brewer has been coming to Janesville for the past fifty years and has made of persons in this city and immediate vicinity knew him intimately. The Union says of him an his life work.

Dr. Frank Brewer, well known to a very large number of people in the four states of Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana and Ohio, died at the home of his son, Frank Brewer, Tuesday morning, in the 77th year of his age. The immediate cause of his death was the bursting of an aneurysm resulting from cirrhosis of liver.

Death came as a welcome release and ended a lifetime devoted to his chosen profession of medicine. In the thirty-four years that he has been engaged in this work he has never known to let personal considerations interfere with the keeping of his appointments. He had regular patients in all the principal towns in the four states mentioned but in late years visited only the two states of Wisconsin and Michigan.

It was while sitting in the depot at Beloit Junction and waiting for the train to take him to Menominee, Wis., that he was stricken and rendered apparently insensible. A friend there, Mr. Andrews, took him to Madison where he was met by his grandson, Dwight Brewer, and taken to Janesville. There being no Sunday train from Janesville to the city, an auto was brought here as carefully as possible over the rather poor roads to Dr. P. M. Brewer's hospital in this city. There he has been attended by his two sons, both physicians and by his wife who came up from Evansville as soon as possible, and surrounded by every comfort procurable. The week that preceded his death was one of intense suffering which could be but slightly allayed.

Mr. Brewer was born in Vermont, Aug. 6, 1831 and lived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Brewer, at Brantville and Warren, Ohio, coming here in an early day and settling on what is known as the Brewer farm, two miles southeast of Jefferson.

On Oct. 10, 1858 he married Miss Josephine M. Miner, of Beloit. Two sons were born to them Dr. E. L. Brewer of this city and Dr. Clyde S. Brewer of Austin, Ill. Dr. Brewer is survived also by four half brothers, Dr. Daniel Brewer of Fairbury, Ill., Dr. Jay Brewer of Jefferson and John and Sylvester Brewer who reside on the old homestead in the town of Jefferson.

The deceased will be remembered by early settlers of Beloit, Sullivan and Whitewater, where he taught school for eleven years. In 1870, he graduated from the Bennett Medical College of Chicago and later from the Hahnemann Homeopathic College of that city.

In 1872, as went to Fairbury, Ill., where he practiced medicine. In 1874, he went into partnership with Dr. V. C. Price, the millwright, founder of the Price baking powder and having extracts. At that time Dr. Price was making a tour of the cities of Illinois and Dr. Brewer commenced the same work in adjoining states. In his case book is a list of 7,500 names of patients for whom he has at one time or another prescribed.

The funeral services consisted of a short prayer this morning at 9:30 at the residence here after which the body was taken to Beloit for interment, services being held in the Beloit church conducted by Rev. E. L. Eaton, of Evansville, who, when a child attended a school taught by Dr. Brewer, at Beloit. The pall bearers selected were as follows: Hon. L. B. Caldwell, N. E. Hopkins, Col. G. W. Burdard, D. A. Bullock, S. S. Curtis and W. D. Howard.

Dr. Brewer was a man devoted to his family and his memory will be fondly cherished by them and by a very wide circle of friends.

Chapter Two

SOPHY GROUCH had gone to lay a bunch of flowers on her father's grave. From the first Mrs. Brownlow had taught her this pious rite, and Mrs. Brownlow's duty, the gardener's wife, in whose cottage Sophy lived, had seen to its punctilious performance every week. Things went by law and rule at the hall, for the square was a man of active mind and ample leisure. His household circle was a marvel of intricacy and minuteness. Sophy's coming and going had developed a multitude of new chances, under whose benevolent yet strict supervision her youthful mind had been trained in the way in which Mr. Brownlow was of opinion that it should go.

Sophy's face, then, was a grave and responsible air as she returned with steps of decorous slowness from the sacred precincts. Yet the outer manner was automatic—a result of seven years' practice. Within her mind was busy. The day was one of mark in her life. She had been told her destined future and was wondering how she would like it.

Her approach was perceived by a tall and pretty girl who lay in the meadow grass and munched a blade of it which bordered the path under the elm trees. "What a demure little witch she looks!" laughed Julia Robbins, who was mood for laughter that day, greeting with responsive gleam of the eyes the twilight which fell in speckles of radiance through the leaves above. It was a summer day, and summer was in her heart too. Yet not for the common cause with young maidens. It was no nonsense about love-making. Lofly ambition was in the case today.

"Sophy Grouch! Sophy Grouch!" she cried in a high, merry voice.

Sophy raised her eyes, but her steps did not quicken. With the same measured paces of her lady, lean little legs she came up to where Julia lay.

"Why don't you say just 'Sophy'?" she asked. "I'm the only Sophy in the village."

"Sophy Grouch! Sophy Grouch!" Julia repeated teasingly.

The mark on Sophy's left cheek grew redder. Julia laughed mockingly. Sophy looked down on her, still very grave.

"You do look pretty today," she observed—"and happy."

"Yes, yes! So I thank you, don't I? But I like to see you hang out your danger signal."

"Forgive me."

"Yes," said Sophy. "Do you think it's a very awful name?"

"Oh, you'll change it some day," smiled Julia, speaking more truth than she knew. "Listen! Mother's consented, consented, consented! I'm to go and live with Uncle Edward in London—London, Sophy, and learn elocution."

"Learn what?"

"Elocution, which means how to talk so that people can hear you ever so far off."

"To shout?"

"No, I don't be stupid. To—to be heard plainly without shouting. To be heard in a theater! Did you ever see a theater?"

"No. Only a cinema. I haven't seen much."

"And then—the stage! I'm to be an actress! Fancy mother consenting at last! An actress instead of a governess! Don't it gladden you?" She paused a moment, then added, with a self-conscious laugh, "Mother's awfully angry, though."

"Why should she be angry?" asked Sophy. Her own anger was gone. She was plucking daisies and sticking them here and there in her friend's golden hair. They were great friends; this pair, and Sophy was very proud of the friendship. Julia was grown up, the beauty of the village, and—ah! how, Sophy was by no means any one of these things.

"Oh, you wouldn't understand," laughed Julia, with a blush.

"Does he want to keep company with you—and won't you do it?"

"Only servants keep company, Sophy."

"Oh!" said Sophy obviously making a mental note of the information.

"But she's very silly about it. I've Just said 'Grouch' to him—you know he goes up to Cambridge tomorrow—and he did say a lot of silly things."

A tall young man sat swinging his legs on the gate.

She suddenly caught hold of Sophy and kissed her half a dozen times. "It's a wonderful thing that's happened. I'm so tremendously happy!" She set her teeth friend free with a last kiss and a playful pinch.

Neither carress nor pinch disturbed Sophy's composure. She sat down on the grass.

"Something's happened to me, too, today," she announced.

"What is it, Sophy? What is it?" asked Julia, smiling indulgently. The great events in other lives are thus sufficiently acknowledged.

"I've left school, and I'm going to leave Mrs. James' and go and live at the hall and be taught to help cook, and when I'm grown up I'm going to be a cook."

She spoke slowly and weightily, her eyes fixed on Julia's face.

"Well, I call it a shame!" cried Julia in generous indignation. "Oh, of course it would be all right if they'd treated you properly—I mean, as if they'd meant that from the beginning. But they haven't. You've lived with Mrs. James, I know, but you've been in and out of the hall all the time, having tea in the drawing room and fruit at dessert, and—"

"And so on, and you look like a little lady and talk like one—almost. I think it's a shame not to give you a better chance, Cook."

"Don't you think it might be rather nice to be a cook—a good cook?"

"No, I don't," answered the building Mrs. Siddons decisively.

"People always talk a great deal about the cook," pleaded Sophy. "Mr. and Mrs. Brownlow are always talking about the cook—and the rector talks about his cook, too—not always very kindly, though."

"No, it's a shame, and I don't believe I'll happen."

"Yes, it will. Mrs. Brownlow settled it today."

"There are other people in the world besides Mrs. Brownlow."

Sophy was not exactly surprised at this dictum, but evidently it gave her thought. Her long delayed "yes" showed that as plainly as her "Oh" had a little while before marked her appreciation of the social limits of "keeping company."

"But she can settle it all the same," she persisted.

"For the time she can," Julia admitted. "Oh, I wonder what'll be my first part, Tote!" She threw her pretty head back on the grass, closing her eyes. A smile of radiant anticipation hovered about her lips. The little girl rose and stood looking at her friend—the friend of whom she was so proud.

"You'll look very, very pretty," she said, with sober gravity.

Julia's smile broadened, but her lips remained shut. Sophy looked at her for a moment longer, and without formal farewell, resumed her progress down the avenue. It was hard on Tote, and Mrs. James' was a stickler for punctuality.

Yet Sophy's march was interrupted once more. A tall young man sat swinging his legs on the gate that led from the avenue into the road. The sturdy boy who had run home in terror on the night Enoch Grouch died had grown into a tall, good looking young fellow. He was clad in what is nowadays called a blazer and checked trousers and smoked a large meerschaum pipe. His expression was gloomy. The gate was shut, and he was on the top of it. Sophy approached him with some signs of nervousness. When he saw her he greeted her apologetically.

"You can't come through," he said drily.

"Please, Mr. Basil, I must. I shall be late for tea."

"I won't let you through, There!"

Sophy looked despairful. "May I climb over?"

"No," said Basil firmly, but a smile began to twitch about his lips.

Quick now, as ever, to see the joint in a man's armor, Sophy smiled too.

"If you'd let me through I'd give you a kiss," she said, offering the only thing she had to give in all the world.

"You would, wouldn't you? But I hate kisses. In fact, I hate girls all around, big and little."

"You don't hate Julia, do you?"

"Yes, worst of all."

"Oh!" said Sophy—once more the recording "Oh!"—because Julia had given quite another impression, and Sophy sought to reconcile these opposites.

The young man jumped down from the gate, with a healthy laugh at himself and at her, caught her up in his arms and gave her a smacking kiss.

BOLD BANDITS ARE FOILED

TRY TO ROB BANK MESSENGERS IN BROAD DAYLIGHT.

Bravery of Men Attacked and of Women Frustrates Crime on New York Streets.

New York, May 25.—In broad daylight and in one of the densely populated portions of the city three thugs late Monday afternoon made a daring attempt to hold up and rob a trio of bank messengers as they were carrying $45,000 in cash from one of the bank's branches to its main building.

Black pepper was showered upon the messengers, one of them was hit with a blackjack and another slashed with a knife in the desperate effort of their assailants to seize the money and escape without it before the arrival of assistance.

That they failed to get clear with the valises filled with coin and bills which the bank employees were carrying was due to the stubbornness with which the messengers related the attack and to the bravery of a young Polish waitress in a nearby restaurant, who so impeded and delayed the leader of the attacking trio that he fell an easy victim to the policeman who came running to the rescue.

The messengers were employees of the Jefferson bank and were on their way from the branch at Clinton and Houston streets to the main bank on Canal street. On First street three men jumped upon them and threw pepper in their faces, the leading thug attacking Samuel Edelman, who carried the bulk of the money, grabbing his money bag and attempting to run with it. The other thugs took care of Joseph H. Vohser and Abraham Stern, the other messengers.

Edelman tried to shake his assailant off, but was falling badly under the pummeling when Mrs. Eva Javoronka, waitress in a nearby restaurant, grabbed the leader of the attacking band by the arm. She screamed, so loudly for help that a patrolman came running up, frightening the other two thugs away, and was right at the heels of the man who had attacked Edelman by the time he had managed to shake himself free from the waitress. The fugitive was captured.

The man arrested gave his name as Cassio Riccobono. The police later arrested Riccobono's father, Giovanni Riccobono, and his two brothers, Salvatore and Damiano Riccobono, who are held as suspects for a further examination.

"A surgeon—a doctor, you know—with a red lamp, like Dr. Souton of Brentwood."

She looked at him for a moment. "Are you really going away?" she asked abruptly.

"Yes, for a bit—tomorrow."

Sophy's manner expanded into a calm consciousness. "I'm very sorry," she said.

"Thank you."

"You must me."

"The deuce I do!" laughed Basil Williamson.

She raised her eyes slowly to his. "You'll be friends, anyhow, won't you?"

"To cook or queen," he said, and heartiness shone through his gallantry.

Sophy nodded her head gravely, sealing the bargain. A bargain it was.
